Building an enduring legacy for future generations

Overview

We believe that family harmony is essential to healthy financial decision-making. A family governance model, which fosters communication and trust, will serve as the keystone in achieving the successful transition of family wealth across generations. At Deutsche Bank Wealth Management, we work with families and their trusted advisors to establish an enduring governance structure for the family and future generations.

How we partner with you

After better understanding your family's values, goals and priorities, we carefully design a plan that targets your family's specific needs and partner with you and your family to:

- Craft a family mission statement that embodies the family's core values and provides the framework for a sound legacy plan
- Develop a family protocol, or set of protocols, geared toward the success and continuity of the family business and that encompasses the family composition and geography
- Create a family board within the family enterprise(s)
- Formulate policies to guide the family during complex and difficult situations
- Engage the younger generation through educational events and participation on a junior board within the family enterprise(s)
